John,

The version of the manuscript that I have does not include any of the Supplemental Materials (Supplementary methods text, Supplementary results text, Figs. S1-S18, Tables S1-S5).

Can you share the Supplementary information?

Thanks,

Gloria

Hi Gloria,

Thank you very much and yes, please share with Chris Lau, and send him my regards. Chris is great.

I have not heard any specifics on the publication date yet. Will plan to let you know when I learn.

Congratulations of the ITRC document! This is a huge accomplishment. Congrats to you and Sandra! I will be perusing it during our rainy Sunday!

Stay safe yourself!

John

John,

Congratulations on the acceptance of your paper! This is such exciting news! It is a great achievement, and we are so thankful that you are able to work with NJDEP on this project!

Do you have any idea when it will be published?

Also, can I share the paper with Chris Lau? He has published toxicology studies on PFNA, and we used his study as the basis for our PFNA MCL, so he has an interest in this topic. I was not sure since you only mentioned NJDEP in your email below.

Also, FYI - The ITRC PFAS document is now online at <https://pfas-1.itrcweb.org/> It is very comprehensive, as can be seen by the topics listed in the table on the website. If printed out, it would be more than 500 pages long. This document has been under development for about 2.5 years. Sandra Goodrow was the co-lead for the large section that includes (hotlinks): Physical and Chemical Properties, Environmental Fate and Transport Processes, Media-Specific Occurrence, and Site Characterization. And I was the lead writer for the Human Health section (exposure sources, biomonitoring, toxicokinetics, epidemiology, toxicology, etc.) This includes an overview in Section 7.1 https://pfas-1.itrcweb.org/7-human-and-ecological-health-effects-of-select-pfas/#7_1 and more detailed information in Section 17.2 https://pfas-1.itrcweb.org/17-additional-information/#17_2

Hope you are staying safe and well!

And - Congratulations again!

Take care,
Gloria

John,

Definitely not email box clutter! Thanks so much for all your hard work on this, it's an amazing achievement! Also, thank you for your effort in getting the last minute changes included!

I wanted to ask if the accepted manuscript can now be shared to select people within DEP? DEP will not share or present this outside the Department until publication.

Coauthors,

Sorry to clutter your inboxes so much recently, but I thought you would want this news. We are accepted in Science.

Thank you all for your efforts, expertise and patience!

The attached version is what is accepted.

Sincerely, John

Dear Dr. Yeston,

I just found your acceptance letter in my Spam folder again!

Thank you very much for all your time and effort.

We do not have plans on presenting this work outside of internal Agency meetings, consisting only of small groups, at anytime before publication in Science. We intend to comply with Science's policies. I would be entirely agreeable should our paper be selected for early online publication, using the accepted version of the manuscript.

I will check with our organization regarding "striking visuals."

Thanks again,
John Washington

Subject: Acceptance of your Science Manuscript aba7127

16-Apr-2020

Manuscript number: aba7127

Dear Dr. Washington,

I am pleased to accept your paper "Nontargeted mass-spectral detection of chloroperfluoropolyether carboxylates in New Jersey soils." for publication in Science. Your paper will now be prepared for publication by our copyediting department. We will edit your manuscript to improve clarity, to save space, and to conform to Science style. You will have an opportunity to approve these changes before final print publication. Our printer will send an email to you with instructions for viewing and approving your proofs online.

Your paper may be considered for earlier publication online via First Release. Please alert us immediately if you are presenting this work at an upcoming conference or have any other specific requests regarding the timing of publication. For early online publication, we use the accepted version of the manuscript and do not send proofs.

Please check again and confirm the authorship of your paper and that every author is appropriately listed and included in the final revised manuscript. This is especially important for papers with large author lists or including group authors. We will consider the list in the revised manuscript as final. Any changes in authorship from the original submission require the approval of all authors and must be noted to us immediately. Some changes may not be allowed or may lead to rejection of the paper. Changes after publication, including rapid online publication, are not allowed.

Your paper is under embargo until 2:00 pm EST on the day of publication. Our Office of Public Programs will be contacting you about a week before publication with detailed information regarding the embargo that will ensure that your paper is covered maximally and accurately in the popular press. At that time they will also be requesting any multimedia or striking visuals that they could distribute to the press. In the meantime, refer any press requests for copies of your paper or for interviews to Meagan Phelan, Science Press Package Executive Director (mphelan@aaas.org or 202-326-6436). Alternately, you can send an email to scipak@aaas.org.

For authors with NIH or Wellcome Trust grants intending to deposit the accepted version of their paper on PubMed Central, the following text must be displayed as a footnote with an asterisk to the manuscript title:
